A new garage door:

The easy way to elevate your home's value.

A new garage door is an easy, impactful way to update your home and boost its value. It can transform the look of your home and increase curb appeal after just a quick installation.

New garage doors consistently top the lists of the best home improvements you can make. They can recoup an astounding 103%* of the cost once the house is sold, making your purchase of a new garage door one of the smartest improvements – and remodeling projects—you can make.

With so many designs, colors, and materials to choose from, we have doors to suit your home, style, and budget. Best of all, we have door design experts who will help you design the new garage door of your dreams. Our door design service is free with a new door installation – our competitors charge a hefty fee for this service (if they offer it at all).

Contact America's #1 garage door company to schedule your new door consultation today!

We can customize your door to any color!

An energy efficient garage makes a difference.

During cold spells, you may notice that your garage doesn't retain heat like it should.

Or during the summer months, you leave your cool house only to find a sweltering attached garage. While many homes are properly insulated, the garage often gets ignored and is uninsulated, which will drive up your energy bills.

Energy-efficient doors are the best way to keep your garage cool in the summer and warm in the winter. Insulated doors, like our Designer Class Collection, are made with three layers (instead of the standard single layer) to keep your garage temperate.

Our door design experts are available for a free consultation to determine which insulated door is right for your home. Schedule online or call today!

Our commitment to quality

At Precision, we know you have many options when choosing a company to service your garage door. So we go out of our way to ensure that quality parts and service are our standard.

By using only the best parts in all our installations and repairs, our customers get the best value. American-made Precision parts are built to last, which means your door will work more efficiently and last longer. And it could be years, or decades, before you need to replace anything!

Choose an expert Precision technician, and your garage door repair or installation will be done right and last for years. Our technicians' trucks are each stocked to be a 'warehouse on wheels' filled with all the parts needed for repairs, so we are typically able to fix your door the same day.

We also offer the garage door industry's leading warranty, The Precision Promise, covering all our technicians' workmanship for up to 5 years.
